

Luxembourg's Diplomacy & Communications Institute (LUDCI.eu) introduces a media diplomacy service.

LUDCI.eu, through the power of 360 marketing, communications, technology and education, crosses borders, driving eDiplomacy to raise awareness and equally so support early warning and a timely reaction on issues of our time.

LUDCI.eu offers an e-learning platform providing industry, sector, and discipline communication courses, including marketing, digital content, writing, speech, press relations, and presentation delivery using disruptive IoT, AI and NLP technology.

LUDCI.eu social corporate responsibility track focuses on raising awareness to fight against child-trafficking.

Alongside the online courses, LUDCI services include:

- An eMagazine, the 'Headline Diplomat' and its respective journal
- An open community blog, the 'Citizen Diplomat'

Headline Diplomat:

An eMagazine studying, highlighting and reinforcing the impact of media and artificial intelligence on Diplomacy by looking through different sectors, practices, disciplines pushing for an earlier, proactive warning of imminent crises.

Citizen Diplomat:

An eOpen Community highlighting the opinions, beliefs and writings of everyday people on societal and diplomatic issues.
